Introduction

Body Language is the non verbal communication of gestures that has 93% effect in the words of any conversation/speech/presentation. It creates a direct impact on the topic and its outcome. This makes "Body Language" a must learn subject in the competitive world.

Body Language replaces meanings to gestures, postures and the tone of voice which naturally occur during a conversation/Presentation. These meanings can affect the nature of the conversation, both positively and negatively. If Proper body language is used, people can be persuaded, brain washed and dominated by you, your idea or business.

Body Language makes impossible business deals and negotiations possible. It gives you a better understanding about who you are dealing with and what their real expectations are. You can also learn how far a person can be trusted by reading their gestures.

Learning body Language gives you a more dominant place in the society and open doors from dreams to reality in life.
